medmix secures second consecutive CDP "A" rating for Supplier Engagement medmix has secured an "A" rating in CDP's Supplier Engagement Assessment for the second consecutive year, placing the company among a select group of global leaders recognized for driving climate action across their supply chains.

CDP's Supplier Engagement Assessment evaluates how companies manage climate-related risk across their supply chains, based on disclosures in CDP's annual Climate Change Questionnaire. Scores range from A to D- across governance, target-setting, Scope 3 emissions reporting and supplier engagement, with A-rated companies recognized as CDP Supplier Engagement Leaders and named on CDP's public leaderboard.

medmix remains committed to working with suppliers on emissions-reduction targets, transparency and climate governance across its value chain, which accounts for the largest share of the company's total emissions. This makes supplier engagement central to climate performance.

"Achieving this rating for the second year in a row confirms that supplier engagement is a consistent part of how we manage climate risk," said René Willi, CEO of medmix. "It also shows our customers that we hold our supply chain to a high standard of transparency and accountability. We will keep working closely with our suppliers to build on this progress in the years ahead."

medmix' approach to supplier engagement extends beyond this year's assessment. It reflects a broader commitment to environmental and social responsibility across the value chain, underpinning medmix' ambition to lead on sustainable supply chain management across its operations.
